(Two Grenadiers) (Heine-Schumann)
Baritone in German Michael Bohnen

Tannhäuser—Blick'ich umher
(Wolfram's Eulogy of Love) (Act II, Scene IV) (Wagner) Bari. in German
Michael Bohnen

Die Beiden Grenadiere is an inspiring song of two French soldiers who, upon returning home, hear that the Emperor has been captured. Bohnen, the latest addition to the New Hall of Fame, sings it as you have never heard it before, with a voice that is alive with the glorious tones and pulsing emotions of a master artist.

Blick'ich umher is from the opera "Tannhauser," where Wolfram, a minstrel knight who is hopelessly in love with the queen, sings in the Tournament of Song, with the hand of his queen, as a prize to the winner. He sings of a love that is pure and free from stain and Bohnen assumes the role in a masterful manner.

10-in.—$1.50

15050 Mamma mia che vo sape
(Neapolitan Song) (Nutile)
Tenor in Neapolitan Lauri-Volpi

Carmé (Neapolitan Song) (De Curtis)
Tenor in Neapolitan Lauri-Volpi

"Mamma Mia Che Vo Sape," like all the Neapolitan folk songs, is inspirational of the bright blue skys and shining sun of Naples. You will listen to Lauri-Volpi's rendition, thrilling to the fervor so evident in even his top-most notes, and yearn for the land that mothers such beauty in music.

"Carme" is a message from the heart of the singer firing your imagination with a care-free improvised spirit of sentiment that charms.

You will delight in hearing both of these songs, typical of the warm, sunny nature of the people they represent.
